

BECOMING SEA

by Danilo Carvalho, Philipp Hartmann

SYNOPSIS

While the province of Dithmarschen in Northern Germany surrenders to climate change and sacrifices a huge area to the sea, the periodical droughts in the Brazilian Sertão become more and more severe. With associative stagings and not without humor, this docu-fictional film essay observes, first of all, the people. And the water – as a physical and metaphysical base of existence. Drama and daily life in times of climate change.
