

DONBAS DAYS

by Philipp Schaeffer

SYNOPSIS

A short portrait of a young man, who chooses Ukraine as the destination for his year abroad so he can teach juggling to children who have been affected by war. Surrounded by trenches, he confesses that he feels more comfortable here than in Czech Republic because the people are so kind-hearted. With great sensitivity the film shows a search for meaning surrounded by gunfire. [37 DOK.fest Munich, Andrea Erja]
