

A VIOLIN MAKER

by Alessandro Soetje

SYNOPSIS

Cremona, the cradle of violin making, is still a man's world. Yet Bénédicte, a Frenchwoman, has fulfilled her lifelong dream here and opened her own workshop.

Now she faces a major challenge: French violinist Quentin has commissioned a custom-made concert instrument from her. From centuries-old spruce from the Val di Fiemme she must create a violin with a soul all its own. Two months of solitary precision work, full of passion and doubt. In the end, will its sound live up to the musician's high expectations?

Available in German, Italian and English versions.
