

FUGU - A TASTE TO DIE FOR

by John Wate

SYNOPSIS

It's the most dangerous delicacy in the world. Despite incidents of poisoning year after year, the popularity of this exotic dish in Japan remains unbroken. The Japanese blowfish fugu contains one of the deadliest poisons known to man, 1250 times more potent than cyanide. If the cook isn't skilled in the use of a filet knife, the gourmet meal could become a death sentence for the restaurant guest. In a noble Tokyo restaurant, we will accompany an apprentice during the extremely challenging training to become a fugu cook. The chef and his apprentice will familiarize us with the cult of this delicacy, which is both feared and revered.

CAST AND CREW

DIRECTOR John Wate · SCREENPLAY John Wate · EDITOR John Wate · DOP Robin Probyn

Germany 2010

FORMAL CATEGORIES
Science

ORIGINAL LANGUAGES
German, Japanese

PREMIERE
Germany (2010)

WORLD SALES
Telepool GmbH
Sonnenstr. 21
80331 München
Germany
telepool@telepool.de <http://www.telepool.de>