

HOW I LEARNED TO LOVE THE NUMBERS

by Oliver Sechting, Andreas Wolter

SYNOPSIS

How I Learned to Love the Numbers is a New York film and at the same time the study of a young man suffering from an obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD).

The Berlin filmmaker Oliver Sechting (37) and his co-director Max Taubert (23) travel to New York with the idea of documenting the art scene there. However, the project is quickly overshadowed by Oliver's OCD, and the two directors fall prey to a conflict that becomes the central theme of their film.

Encounters with such artists as film directors Tom Tykwer (Cloud Atlas), Ira Sachs (Keep The Lights On), and Jonathan Caouette (Tarnation) or the transmedia artist Phoebe Legere seem more and more to resemble therapy sessions. At last, Andy Warhol superstar Ultra Violet succeeds in opening a new door for Oliver.

FESTIVALS

FF Max Ophüls Preis 2014

CAST AND CREW

DIRECTOR Oliver Sechting, Andreas Wolter · PRODUCER Rosa von Praunheim · SCORE Benjamin Leers, Maïke Rosa Vogel · SOUND Oliver Sechting · EDITOR André Krummel · DOP Max Taubert

Germany 2014

88 min

ORIGINAL TITLE

WIE ICH LERNTÉ, DIE ZAHLEN
ZU LIEBEN

FORMAL CATEGORIES

Biographie/Portrait, Arts/Culture

ORIGINAL LANGUAGES

German, English

PREMIERE

Germany (2014)

DISTRIBUTED BY

missingFILMs Acrivulis & Severin
GbR

Boxhagener Str. 18

10245 Berlin

Germany

verleih@missingfilms.de

<https://www.missingfilms.de>

FILM LOCATION

USA

LINKS / REFERENCE

<http://www.rosavonpraunheim...>

<https://www.missingfilms.de...>