

JIMI'S LAST FESTIVAL

by Rasmus Gerlach

SYNOPSIS

Fehmarn 1970. Jimi Hendrix played his last festival. This music film uses super-8 and amateur film material to reconstruct the historic concert.

In September 1970, the Love and Peace Festival was held at the Flügger lighthouse on Fehmarn Island in the Baltic. Planned as the German response to the legendary Woodstock festival, the chaotic event had about 25,000 visitors. Wind and rain dominated the ambience, and the star guest Jimi Hendrix initially refused to perform under those conditions.

But then the moment came. Hits like "Hey Joe" and "Purple Haze" resounded over the festival grounds, in their increasingly dismantled state. Immediately after the performance, Hendrix left for London, where he died a few days later. Fifty years later, filmmaker Rasmus Gerlach reconstructed the event using an array of found and amateur footage. The super-8 and 16mm footage not only shows Hendrix's last festival appearance, but also offers insight into a bygone era...

FESTIVALS

2020

62 Nordic Filmdays

2021

nominated for VFF Documentary Film Production Award – 36
DOK.fest Munich

CAST AND CREW

DIRECTOR Rasmus Gerlach · PRODUCER Rasmus Gerlach · DOP
Roman Brodmann, Reinhard Geistert, Andy Hertel, Karl Joseph,
Bernd Liebner, Rüdiger Neumann, Kurt Rosenthal

Germany 2020

80 min

ORIGINAL TITLE

JIMI'S LAST BLUES

FORMAL CATEGORIES

Biographie/Portrait, History,
Music

CONTENT CATEGORIES

Music video

PREMIERE

Lübeck, Germany (2020)

PRODUCTION COMPANY

Kinoki GmbH

Elmenhorststrasse 2

22767 Hamburg

Germany

rasmus.hamburg@t-online.de

<http://www.der-gipfel.hamburg>