

LENA, STELLA, ÜMMÜ AND THE OTHERS

by Betty Schiel

SYNOPSIS

Lena, Stella, Ümmü and the Others attend the same class. The group forms a sociogram which is constantly moving even if everybody seems to have his fixed role. Lena might be the boss, but possibly it is Stella who is actually deciding what's going on. Patrick is just observing. We cannot be sure what he thinks. The class room functions like a microcosmos. The kids react sometimes quite extreme: small and large dramas unrole – moving, fascinating and troubling. Class number three, school for mentally handicapped children in Gelsenkirchen Bulmke-Huellen.
