by Quinka F. Stoehr, Fredo Wulf

SYNOPSIS

Ilja Richter became famous as the host of Germany's cult TV show DISCO. At the time, nobody suspected that he was the son of a Jewish mother, who survived the Nazi era in hiding, and a communist resistance fighter, Georg Richter who was imprisoned in Nazi jails and concentration camps for over 9 years until ally troops liberated him in 1945. Ilja joins with an historian and the film crew to follow up new clues about his father's time in the Concentration Camps Neuengamme und Kaltenkirchen.
