

MCAINE. AN ANAGRAM OF CINEMA

by Margarete Kreuzer

SYNOPSIS

An exploration of Sir Michael Caine's career from his early days in 1950s British theatre to gaining Hollywood fame for his contribution to cinema. The Oscar, BAFTA and Golden Globe winner has appeared in more than 150 films, worked alongside luminaries such as Shirley MacLaine and Laurence Olivier as well as with directors like Paolo Sorrentino and Christopher Nolan. The actor discusses his body of work, private life and the books he has written. German actress Katja Riemann and students from the Hannover University of Music, Drama and Media put some of Caine's acting techniques into practice. Contributors include: Michael Caine, Christopher Nolan, Paolo Sorrentino, David Bailey, Shirley MacLaine.
