

ON THE THEFT OF TIME

by Daniel Postrak, Jörn Neumann

SYNOPSIS

A prison is constructed. Brick by brick a world materializes, in which time follows its own rules. Kenny Berger, Samuel Conley and Helmut Poschner have been subjected to such a parallel world for years. They are there to pay their debt. The price to pay for their transgressions is with time. From inside the prison walls they share a glimpse with us into their hopes and fears through conversations that construct an image of a reality taking place behind high prison walls – totally out of touch with time.
