

SHARING THE HARVEST

by Philipp Petruch

SYNOPSIS

The climate crisis shows that our economic system has led us to a dead-end. The farmers that ensure our subsistence are especially impacted by this. In the search for alternatives, I encounter people who have decided to make a change. Together with consumers, they build communities of mutual support that are dedicated to the values of ecology and common good. A veritable movement has formed on this basis, and its magnitude is growing with each passing day.
