by Sobo Swobodnik

SYNOPSIS

They don't have a steady place to live, they don't have a work qualification, no bank account, no securities. They are young, they are intelligent, they are hungry: hungry for life, for music, for a future away from the civil conception. Two boys from East Germany stroll from city to city seeking their fortune as street musicians, whereby they constantly get into confrontations with society. But they have their friendship and a boundless optimism, to be able to shape their life as they like it - with and through their music.
