

WAHAB, CARETAKER

by Raphael Schanz

SYNOPSIS

An aging Osho commune in the German countryside. The dream of enlightenment and free love still echoes, but the winds of change are impossible to ignore. What remains of the utopias of the 1980s? How to face impermanence? Wahhab is the caretaker of this aging community, answering the slow fade-out of things with his steadfast cordless drill. A film about growing old, holding on and letting go, at the threshold between old ideals and new realities.
